

NegotiatorAI - Negotiation Cheat Sheet

Business: Spice Garden Restaurants | Date: 2026-10-05 | Mode: Agentic Rag

1. Deal Summary

Item:	Corrugated cardboard boxes
Quantity:	500 units per month
Supplier:
Quoted Price:	12.0 per unit
Quoted Terms:	Net 45

2. Your Counter-Offer Strategy

Target Counter-Offer:	10.8 per unit (10.0% discount)
Primary Tactic:	Negotiate a loyalty discount based on your status as a repeat customer and explore material specification flexibility to lower costs.

Alternative Asks:

- Shorten payment terms to Net 30
- Include free delivery for orders over 500 units
- Request a trial of lower-spec boxes to assess quality

3. Your Leverage Points (Use These!)

- Repeat customer status which can justify a loyalty discount (Evidence 6)
- Standard volume discounts of 5-10% for orders of 500+ units (Evidence 2)
- Potential for additional savings by exploring material specification flexibility (Evidence 3)

4. Opening Script (Use Verbatim or Adapt)

"Hello, I appreciate the quote for the corrugated cardboard boxes. As a repeat customer, I believe we can work together to find a more favorable price point. I'm looking at a counter-offer of Rs.10.8 per unit based on my loyalty and the standard volume discounts available."

5. Evidence Summary (from Knowledge Base)

The evidence indicates that packaging materials, particularly corrugated boxes, are highly negotiable due to their standard margins and volume sensitivity. For orders of 500 units, standard volume discounts range from 5% to 10%, with achievable targets of 10% to 18% for committed quarterly orders. As a repeat customer, there is potential for additional discounts, with loyalty discounts typically ranging from 3% to 7%, and up to 10% if cumulative spend is cited. However, the absence of competing quotes limits leverage, as discounts associated with competing offers (5% to 15%) cannot be utilized. The evidence suggests exploring material specification flexibility, which could lead to cost savings if lower specifications meet product requirements. Overall, while there are established benchmark

Key Benchmarks:

- 5-10% standard volume discount at 500+ units
- 10-18% achievable target with quarterly commitment
- 3-7% loyalty discount after 12 months
- 5-10% loyalty discount by citing cumulative spend

NegotiatorAI - Negotiation Cheat Sheet

6. Rehearsal Scorecard

Overall:		3.5/5
Assertiveness:		3.0/5
Leverage Use:		4.0/5
Pushback Handling:		3.0/5
Closing Technique:		4.0/5

Coach Notes:

The buyer effectively leveraged their status as a repeat customer to negotiate a better price, which is commendable. However, they could have been more assertive in pushing for their target price and handling the vendor's pushback more strategically.

Strengths:

- Utilized repeat customer status to negotiate a better price.
- Demonstrated flexibility in price negotiation by suggesting Rs.11.5 and later Rs.11.64.

Areas to Improve:

- Be more assertive in pushing for the target price of Rs.10.8 and clearly articulate the value of the loyalty discount.
- Respond more effectively to the vendor's pushback by emphasizing the leverage points available.

7. Improved Opening Script (Post-Coaching)

"Hello, I appreciate the quote for the corrugated cardboard boxes. As a loyal repeat customer, I believe we can work together to find a more favorable price point. I am looking for a counter-offer of Rs.10.8 per unit, considering the standard volume discounts available and my commitment to larger orders."

Note: Recommendations are based on user-supplied deal facts and curated negotiation knowledge. NegotiatorAI does not independently verify market prices across all item categories - this is a deliberate scope trade-off (cross-industry generality over deep price-accuracy). Supplement with your own market research for best results.